Mayor is "Astounded" at This Year's Costs for Snow Removal

At a regular session of the municipal council today, a loan order for $60,000, that had been advertised in the newspapers as required by law, the proceeds of which are to be used for the "construction" of bridges, was passed by a unanimous vote. After the regular business of the session had been disposed of, the budget estimates for the street department were taken up. When the estimate of the cost of snow removal for the year, $50,000, was reached, Mayor Perry D. Thompson asked Commissioner Murphy how much had been spent thus far this year on keeping the streets open. When the commissioners stated that $300 had been spent after the first storm and $6000 after the one of last week, making a total of $12,300, the mayor said that he was "astounded" at the size of the charge.

Kearney Explains

When the order authorizing the $60,000 bridge loan had been read by the mayor, City Engineer Stephen Kearney was called upon to explain what the money is to be used for.

He said that part of the money

WITNESS IN MURDER TRIAL KIDNAPPED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 15.—County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton was undecided today what action would be taken concerning the kidnapping of A. J. Babius of Bradley, who had volunteered to testify for the state in the trial of Judge William H. McGannon, charged with the second degree murder of Harold C. Kays.

Stanton received a telegram from Babius at Connellsburg, Pa., saying that he had been kidnapped Thursday as he was starting for Cleveland from Bradley.

Babius said he was en route from Bradley to Dillonvale, the nearest railroad station, on Thursday night when he was seized by three men, thrown into a taxicab, bound and gagged. After riding several hours he was transferred to another machine in which he rode for two days. On Saturday he was thrown from the machine at Dawson, Pa., near Connellsburg, after the men had taken $67 in cash.

"If you ever return to Cleveland, we will kill you," Babius said, he was warned. He had feared to report the matter until yesterday.

LEGION HEARS CASEY ON NEW CHARTER

Discussion of the proposed city charter from the viewpoint of the charter commission, bringing out the reasons for adopting each of its provisions, conducted by Hon. James B. Casey, chairman of the charter commission, was the feature of last night's meeting of Post 57 American Legion, in Legion hall, Durfee street.

After Mr. Casey had gone carefully through each of the charter provisions explaining them carefully and dissipating several objections to them, the meeting was thrown open to an informal discussion. Out of the large number present, there were several who took a very active part in the proceedings and asked many questions, all of which were cheerfully and satisfactorily answered by the speaker. No formal expression of the attitude of the Legion members was given.

Previous to the discussion and address by Mr. Casey and during the business session, the entertainment committee was instructed to go ahead with plans to bring Captain Edwin Booth's lecture to this city.

Capt. Booth's lecture resonated somewhat like the YD moving pictures which were shown here some time ago. War-time pictures and views of reconstruction work in France are included in Booth's lecture. The lecture has presented his show in many cities in New England and at present is busy in the large cities of Connecticut.

The Legion assembly also extended a vote of thanks to Jeremiah O'Sullivan, of the city assessors' office and Representative Charles Stowey for their work in support of the veterans tax exemption law. Under the tax exemption law, which has been passed, the property of all war veterans, no matter what branch of the service, for the first $2000 worth, is exempt from taxes. This provision is similar to the exemptions allowed the veterans of the Civil War.

Malden Man Overpowers Armed Intruder in His Home After Fierce Struggle

Shot Fired By Thief Hit Metal Badge Worn By H. E. Archibald

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—After surprising a robber in his home at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, struggling with the man for half an hour during which time he was shot and clubbed, Harry E. Archibald of 13 Clark street, Malden, overpowered his assailant, pushed the man's face through a window and wrenching the gun away. Then he turned the revolver on the robber and held it to his head while the intruder telephoned to the Malden police station for the wagon and squad of officers that took him away.

The burglar fired one shot at Archibald that proved to be a blank cartridge. A second time he fired and the bullet went through the Malden man's vest and struck a metal badge worn by Archibald, who is an employee of the Malden Electric company. The badge deflected the bullet and undoubtedly saved his life. When he closed in to prevent further firing, grasping the intruder's arm, the latter used his gun as a club and brought it down sharply on Archibald's head. The blow inflicted a wound in the scalp that had to be stitched by a physician.

When taken to the police station and questioned by Inspector Greenleaf and Asheyard, it was learned that the arrested man's real name is John J. Mitchell and that he is the man who created a sensation in the trial of the Rolling brothers, in the so-called tea-stores murders, and gave testimony against the defendant. The police also learned, they say, from the man's admissions, that he had served time before for larceny in Shirley and at Concord.

USE CLUBS IN BATTLE

Fight for Possession of London Wooten Mills in Enfield, Mass.

ENFIELD, Mass., Feb. 15.—A battle for possession of the London Woolen Mills in this town, conducted with clubs between retainers of David E. Tebo, original owner of the mill property, and Charles M. London of Springfield, who claimed possession, resulted today in the arrest of Laverne S. Bartlett, supporter of Tebo, London, and London's two companions.

The ownership of the mill is in the courts and today the mill was opened on court order by Deputy Sheriff Hess. Immediately Tebo, with his daughter, who is an attorney, and Bartlett took possession. Shortly afterward London and two companions arrived by automobile and sought to enter. Their entry was barred by Bartlett, who is said to have used a six-foot club.

The London party persisted, it is said, and a clash occurred in which the combatants rolled in the dust. Deputy Hess was called and made the arrests. The prisoners were taken to Wate for arraignment.

DARING PLOT OF REDS UNCOVERED

Overthrow of Governments of France, Italy and Spain on May 1 Planned

Funds Transmitted Through American Firm -- Plot Doomed

PARIS, Feb. 15.—By the Associated Press—Overthrow of the bourgeois governments of Spain, Italy and France is contained in documents seized after a thorough search yesterday, following discovery of a widespread communist plot. The date fixed by the communists for this event was May 1, 1921.

The contemplated arrest of two communist members of the chamber of deputies, alleged plotters against whom Judge Jaurès has delayed to M. Marquet, minister of the interior, seems to have brought the French public to a realization of the importance of the attempt against the security of the state.

Discoveries made by the police of Barcelona and Milan show that the plot included the three European Latin countries. Transmission of funds was effected through an American financial organization with European headquarters in Paris, and branches in Berlin and Vienna.

Soviets have been organized throughout France with Paris as the headquarters, according to the police, ready to take over the railroads, banks and transportation and all civil services. The plot appears to have been organized without the knowledge of M. Cachin, leader of the French communist party, against whom the police say they will not demand the lifting of parliamentary immunity.

The discovery of cheques coming from Berlin and paid through an American transportation company appears to have caused a revolution of feeling in French political and official circles, and also among the working men's committees which, so long as the leaders professed to be working for "principles," were willing to support them. But a poster was issued this evening in the second ward, where an election will be held Feb. 27, asking the voters to support the moderate socialist element in preference to the extremists.

The French Communist press, departing from its menacing attitude of the past few months, expresses surprise that repressive measures should come from Premier Briand, "a former comrade."

L'Humanité, official organ of the French Communist, appears to be especially upset by the arrest of its city editor, M. Danilo. The police hold a canceled check for 29,000 francs issued in his name at Berlin.

The opinion in the chamber lobbies where the probable arrest of the two communist deputies has been freely commented upon is that the government has struck a knockout blow against the communist propaganda and that when the minister of the interior requests the lifting of the parliamentary immunity in the case of the two compromised deputies his request will be granted by a large majority, and finally, that the plot is doomed to failure.

APPROPRIATIONS WILL BOOST TAX RATE

As a result of the liberality of the voters of Chelmsford in the voting of the appropriations at the annual town meeting yesterday, it is believed that the tax rate for the town for the year 1921 will be about $22 per the ward, a considerable increase over last year's rate.

In practically every instance the appropriation was voted upon as recommended by the finance committee.

A feature of yesterday's meeting was the voting of an appropriation of $50,000 for a new school house and land in the Westland district, $5,000 for established schools and teachers and $1,000 for streets and highways. The town voted to accept the bequests under the will of the late Orra A. G. Fluit, which provides $1000 for a fund, the income of which is to buy suitable books for the Adams library; $1000 for the care of the Aaron George cemetery lot in the North and $17,000 for the building of an addition to the Adams library, $10,000 to be expended on the addition and the remainder to be utilized in the purchase of books.

NANCY BANNED THEIR HOST THE LITTLE WHITE FLOWER SHE BROUGHT AND HE PUT IT INTO A CRYSTAL VASE

Nick put the golden key he had taken from his box of charms into the lock of the bright little star's front door. Instantly the door flew open and the star invited them to enter.

"It's a fine thing you had it along, Nick," said he gravely, "or we should all have been locked out for good. Perhaps it's better go in first and show you the way."

The instant the star stepped inside his little house of clear glass, the walls suddenly glittered as though someone had lighted a thousand candles.

The illumination was so bright that the twins had to shade their eyes. They could well imagine the earth children below saying, "Oh, there is another star! It has just come out!"

After this they would know better themselves. They would say hereafter, "Oh, there is a new star. He has just come in."

Nancy handed them host the little key at Forefathers' cemetery, $150.

General—Public parks, $700; street lighting, $3224; village clock, $30; Memorial day, $200; Insurance (shaking fund), $500; Industrial school (plus receipts), $3000; treasurer's bond, $220; printing and delivering town reports, $750; North Chelmsford fire district, $750; Chelmsford water district, $750; band concerts, $250; high school graduating (plus the unexpended balance of 1920), $1200.

Public Buildings—Janitor service, $300; fuel, light and water, $730; repairs and furniture, $1000; maintenance, $325.

Highways—Superintendent's salary, $4700; State highway, $2000; Post roads, $100; State highway, $2000; Woods corner, $200; West Chelmsford road (plus the unexpended balance of 1920), $2000; Billerica road, $500; River Neck road, $100; Russell Mill road, $500; Frost's road, $100; School street (West Chelmsford, rebuilding wall), $300; Chelmsford street (inacaud), $300; Chelmsford street, $500; Post road, $300; cutting brush, $200; Taylor street (West Chelmsford), $300; Sherman and Adams streets, $300; loading machine, $612; steam roller and scarifier, $6000; fence at West cemetery, $100; street signs, $200.

At the close of the meeting the new highway committee, consisting of the poor but organized for the year as follows: George W. Day, chairman of selection; George Riggs, chairman, board of overseers of the poor. Justin L. Moore, who at the annual election of officers was chosen as town clerk, was appointed town accountant and clerk of the two boards of health and lighting offices, and Alvin Putnam a disinterested.

DIDN'T CARE TO EAT

People who almost constantly complain of headaches, weakness, lack of color, dizzy spells, sleeplessness, heart palpitation and indigestion will read with interest the experience of Mrs. K. Waldbillig, of No. 1 West Van Vechten street, Albany, N. Y.

"I was tired and worn out. It seemed as though I should never get enough rest," she says. "I had little color and my appetite was variable. At times I didn't care to eat anything and then when I had a desire for food I generally had attacks of stomach trouble. I was nervous at times and suffered from frequent headaches.

"I read an advertisement about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. After I had taken one box I knew that they were helping me. I continued taking the pills until my strength returned. My appetite improved first and I began to have more ambition and a desire to get about. I no longer have stomach trouble and the headaches and nervousness have disappeared. I strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they certainly helped me."

simply a perfume of colors—not a solemn, heavy perfume, but a wild and exuberant aroma of reds and blues and golds and silvers and greens and purples and in fact all the colors and shades of colors that you can think of, together with a lot more. These hues were displayed with an intricacy of design which was yet devised with such ingenuous skill that all the power of simplicity was achieved.

There were couch covers, bed spreads, curtains of the most exultant silk, odd peasant jackets, woven cloths of many shades, droll slippers with pom-poms at the tips, even pajamas. There were Greek costumes, aprons, handkerchiefs cunningly embroidered. There were Florentine books, Sorrento inlays, tobacco pouches which were not as the pouches of our gray smokers' stores. There were coins, and curios and wood carvings.

There was a large wooden spoon, the handle of which had been carved in the most marvellous manner by patient Greek monks. And then there was a set of the conversation beads used by these monks. It appears that when the religious of the land of Socrates, Plato and Aristotle, are engaged in holy conversation, they hold these beads, which consist of a series of brilliantly polished stones, moving their fingers from one bead to another as they change from one place subject to another.

There were Rhodian embroideries, and weavings from Bokhara. There were Roman pieces of money which were hammered out before the Christian era. One little boy, told that these coins dated from B. C., remarked that he couldn't see B. C. marked on them. Anyhow, we'll blame the anachronism on a little boy.

There was a strangely shaped scraper which ancient health-seekers used to scrape the mud from their ananomes after they had been frolicking in a mud bath. There were East Indian purses, done with all the lavish color of the Hindoo artist. There was a silver Greek cross, curiously worked, with coral and precious stones set about a tiny crucifix. Miss Soutsides, of Lowell, contributed this religious emblem, which has been for three hundred years in her family. Mrs. K. Soutsides, another local woman, loaned the Greek conversation beads.

There were—but let us glance at a list of the countries represented in the exhibit: Persia, Armenia, India, Greece, Syria, Italy, Portugal, Turkey, Macedonia, Poland.

To examining the Armenian embroidery, done on organza, with real silver, is alone worthy of a visit.

During the afternoon tea was served, and the folk dances and songs of Greece were given by a group of delightful tots who were born in that picturesque land. The "Kalamatians"

EXHIBITION AT THE WHISTLER HOUSE

Do you want to see a needle which may have been used by Helen of Troy? And little wooden cups into which people cry when they drown ones die, and which they place on graves? And some of the most charming little Greek girls that ever danced the Kalamatians? You do, naturally.

The place to see these, and a thousand other delightful wonders, is Whistler house, where the Lowell International Institute for Women, and the Folk Handicrafts Guild, are giving a joint exhibition of foreign handicrafts, costumes, and countless other curious and beautiful things. Yesterday the affair opened with many local people in attendance. As one entered the quaint Whistler house, to one's left was a room which was filled with the perfume of colors, and to the right a room which was filled with the perfume of music.

Income Tax?

Here's All You Need

There's one man who is not losing any sleep over the income tax.

He is the treasurer of a small hardware company, and a busy man. He does not employ a bookkeeper and though he works all day on the floor, he posts the books himself in the evening, but—

He has a Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine.

Last year, when it came time to make up the Income Tax Return, a deputy internal revenue tax collector dropped into the store and took a look at the Burroughs-kept ledger.

"Why," the collector exclaimed, "you have everything you need right here in plain sight. Just copy off the figures!"

"Can Figure Mine in Twenty Minutes"

With the aid of the Burroughs, this man keeps accounts up-to-date all through the year, so when the tax return is due it is a simple matter to gather the figures from his clear, accurate records. The machine makes it easy to add purchases and sales, classify expenses, take inventory and figure net profit.

Before the Burroughs was bought, he spent from six to eight hours a day on the books, working late into the night and Sunday. Now, all this work is finished in a short time each evening.

His accounts receivable, accounts payable, and private ledger are kept with the Burroughs. Customers' statements also are inserted in the carriage of the machine along with the ledger sheet, and both are posted up-to-date every day.

If you are having trouble with the Income-Tax-figure Hunt this year, now is the time to take steps that will save you from the work and worry next year, and give you daily and monthly business figures you need in these days of quick changes and uncertain markets. A phone call to the nearest Burroughs office will put you in touch with men who can show you a surprisingly simple method for getting this information.

The A B C of Business

Adding, Bookkeeping and Calculating represent the three great groups of figuring operations that constitute the A B C of business. To handle these operations the Burroughs Adding Machine Company manufactures three types of machines in a wide variety of styles and sizes, among which may be found a machine that will fit the needs of any business, large or small.

A Burroughs representative will be glad to show you the type of machine made to fit the needs of your particular business. A telephone call or a letter will bring him.

LIGHTING EXHIBIT WAS BIG SUCCESS

"A remarkable success," is the way C. W. Halstead, of the Lowell Electric Light company, described the recent exhibit of modern lighting held at Lowell Textile school. Mr. Halstead represented the local electric company at the exhibition, which showed the marvellous contributions which proper methods of lighting can make towards the efficiency of factories, mills, or any other industrial concern.

On both days of the demonstration, stated Mr. Halstead today, "large crowds were in attendance at both the afternoon and evening lectures, and the audiences included foremen, shop managers, and other executives from practically all the lead mills, as well as representatives from Lowell business houses."

President Eames, of Lowell Textile school, also is pleased with the success of the exhibit. "Large numbers of the students here were in attendance," he declared, "together with local men interested in scientific industrial methods."

Electric Light company, "and the facts which it brought out are a general topic of discussion among the local leaders of industry. It is universally acclaimed as a revelation in what modern lighting can do to speed up production."

FIRES AT MANCHESTER

Laid to Sinn Fein But No Evidence—Disturbance in Catholic Church

MANCHESTER, Eng., Feb. 15.—A number of alleged attempts to fire factories here have caused some excitement, although the blazes started were extinguished without damage. Wads of waste soaked with petrol were said to be found near where the fires were started. This led to the announcement by the police that it was all the work of the Sinn Fein.

There was a remarkable scene at the celebration of mass at the church of Corpus Christi yesterday. Fr. Mo Guckin had just finished reading Cardinal Bourne's pastoral letter on the Irish question when a member of the congregation called out: "It protest as a Catholic and an Irishman against Englishmen attacking us. It is disgraceful."

Considerable excitement followed, and "Boo, hell" shouted from all parts of the church. In his pastoral letter Cardinal Bourne ordered that the old pastor letter written by Cardinal Manning during the Fenian risings in 1857, and appealing to Irishmen in London to take no sides in the dispute, should be read.

LLOYD GEORGE

It is said that the Lloyd George ministry is threatened by troubles that are pressing for settlement. We do not believe the ministry is in any danger. The premier is an unrivaled artist in turning away the wrath of the people. Whenever he finds public sympathy turning against him, it happens that some of the Scotland Yard's detectives discover an alleged Sinn Fein plot to blow up the oil works in London, the parliament buildings, the docks at Liverpool or the mills of Manchester. Then a few men found loitering in the vicinity of these places are arrested, held as suspects for a time, and let go without any evidence to support any criminal charge against them. But the English people believe these stories and once more the government is applauded for saving the empire. Even the "Irish navy" has been brought up as a legend and while Lloyd George is disgracing England by the barbarous treatment of Ireland, yet he is able to convince the people of England that every policy he adopts is necessary to save the empire.

Since the war, the people are very gullible when it comes to spreading alarm in regard to plots against the nation. Lloyd George has the unlimited cunning, the lack of principle and political sagacity to turn every untoward movement to his own advantage and at the same time hold the confidence of the people. He can change his position to meet new situations with the agility of a monkey on a tree and the people not comprehending his political tactics, finally conclude that the premier is right. That is why we say that he will overcome the difficulties that now threaten his ministry.

TEXTILE OUTLOOK GOOD

Treasurer Greene of the Pacific mills in Lawrence speaks in a very optimistic vein of the outlook for the textile industry in New England. He recounts the difficulties through which the industry passed during last year when there came a great cancellation of orders resulting from a refusal of the people to purchase at the prevailing prices. He asserts that the textile industry being the first to feel the radical wave of deflation and to adjust its business accordingly, will also be the first to get back on full time in the return to normal conditions.

While emphasizing the fact that the depression has not entirely passed and that caution must be exercised in all lines of business, he nevertheless feels that not only textile manufacturers but other lines of business are fully warranted in looking forward to an early return of prosperous conditions.

One of the deductions to be made from Mr. Greene's review of conditions in the textile industry is, that inasmuch as the surplus stocks in the domestic market have been pretty well cleared away, unless there is ample tariff protection, there will be an influx of foreign-made goods to supply the domestic market. He asserts that if the textile industry starts up on full time with all machinery in operation, the domestic market will absorb its entire product without any need of export. But without a protective tariff, part of this demand will be supplied by foreign manufacturers to the injury of home production. These reasons will fully justify a reasonable protective tariff for the textile industry against the threatened danger.

SALARIES AT CITY HALL

In view of the present downward tendency in the cost of living, it is peculiarly inopportune to bring forward any demand for increased salaries at city hall. It matters not what the pretext may be, the era of advancing salaries seems to have passed for the present at least, especially at city hall.

There is less justification for raising salaries of city servants than for private service, for the reason that in the employ of the city the hours are shorter, the work less strenuous than elsewhere, and the salaries lesser for the character of the service rendered.

The impression that the city can stand the endless drain of extravagance is a mistake. Already this policy of waste is coming back to the people in heavy tax burdens so that there is a general protest against its continuance.

It is right that the city should treat its workers with a generosity that might not be possible with concerns operated under state control. That would be an extreme step and one that would be unfair to a number of standard remedies, the merit of which is generally conceded.

Twenty million dollars in nickel was paid for telephone conversations last year, and we will wager that a goodly part of the confab was not worth the price.

President Harding says: "Nothing surpasses the possibilities for service that are visible in a great newspaper condoning the public confidence." Thank you.

Doctors, blow out your candles—your long search is over—and take a look at the man who returned part of his salary to the city treasury, because he thought he had not earned it.

If some people could be placed in a room of absolute perfection, then unhappy they would be with nothing to distract them.

Many things in all humanity, and especially in a nation like the United States, we do not care for our share, though it is just.

Five thousand dollars a day is enough for a man to live on, but he doesn't mind trying to live it stand up on a job as such as this.

SEEN AND HEARD

According to reports from some colleges, students have been turning their sheepskins into bootleg.

The Fletcher street car has become stage material. A fellow at Keith's talked about it just week.

A man who married eight women complains that Sing Sing is lonely; golly, you'd think he'd be glad of the seclusion.

Many a fellow who talks about the ignorance and boorishness of the other fellow ought to examine his own conscience.

Redeming Craft
"I know I'm old, but I'm crazy about you," stated Mr. Moneybags. "When I go I'll leave all my fortune to you if you'll have me."

"Have you any bad habits?" asked Miss Goldilocks, thoughtfully.

"Only that I walk in my sleep, if you could eat that a bad habit."

"You dear old thing. Of course I'd marry you. And we'll have our honeymoon on the top floor of some tall hotel, won't we?"—American Legion Weekly.

SUCK IN LIFE

Strike and the world strikes with you, work and you work alone; our souls are ablate with a Bolshevik craze, the wildest that ever was known. Groan and there'll be a chorus, smile and you make no hit, for we've grown long hair and we preach despair and show you a daily fit. Spend and the gang will cheer you, save and you have no friend; for we throw our backs to the birds and ducks, and borrow from all who'll lend. Knock and you'll be a winner, boast and you'll be a frost; for the old sane ways of the pre-war days are now from the pro-gram lost. Strike and the world strikes with you, work and you work alone; for we'd rather sell and raise blue—than strive for an honest bone. Rant and you are a hater, tell and you are a nut. "Twas a bitter day when we pulled away from the old time work-day rut. Wait and there'll be a blow-up, watch and you'll see a stamp, and the fads and crimes of these crazy times will go to the nation's dump.

The Clothes Question

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, the next "first lady," has this to say on the subject of dress: "I have always felt clothes are tremendously important. No one can afford to be indifferent about them." Well spoken! Most of us like to say that it is what a person is and not what he looks like that counts. But, in reality, we make our first judgments of men on their looks and find out what they are at our leisure. Most of us are engaged in the business of "selling" our personalities. It is sad to reflect, but true, that to attract our customers to our characters, we must give ourselves a certain amount of window-dressing. The function of good clothes is to provide the immediate attraction that personality cannot of itself forthwith attract. Besides compelling the instant attention of others, good clothes also have the quality of an encouraging pat on the back of the wearer. Who has not felt the self-confidence and pep that a new spring suit, or even a new hat, imparts?

Let's work and play;
Let's live our day;
Nor brood o'er cares and frets;
Let's sing our song;
And push along.

Let's!

Let's kindly smile,
Nor yield to guile;
Nor daily with regrets;
Let's friendly be,
And hold the key

To strength and courage:

Let's great the morn
With hope new born;
And when the kind sun sets
Let's meet the night
With hearts still light,
And turn to slumber:

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players. They have their exits and their entrances, and one man in his time plays many parts.

The stage, as it is set beneath the city government who bears the biggest load of blame and fault-finding is Street Commissioner "Denny" Murphy. Everybody knows that the condition of the streets of Lowell is bad, and as someone has to be blamed for it, "Denny" gets a chance to play the goat most of the time. He plays his role nonehancingly and philosophically. It is all in the day's work with him, whether he is dealing with a line of job-seekers extending from his office out into Merrimack square or indignant citizens who want to know why the streets are not better taken care of even if there isn't any money to pay the bills, as "Denny" often reiterates in a tired voice that there is not. By the way, I am inclined to think that Dennis is entitled to the credit of being about the most courageous member of the municipal council when it comes to openly expressing his opinions at meetings of the council. It is doubtfulless a wise commissioner who plays safely first when there are incited questions before the board for discussion. I have seen Dennis in action several times, and he has expressed his opinion of the leading characters on the municipal dramatic personae as men is my purpose. In a small corner office on what, I suppose, would be called the second floor of the building, sits Mayor Perry D. Thompson during a part of most days. He is readily accessible to everybody. There is nothing of exordium or red tape about his way of conducting the business of the city. Anyone who has the time to tell him concerns, pretty plainly, equal him in what he has learned and can apply for a job. There have been holders of public office, with whom it has been my fortune to be acquainted, who have seemed to thoroughly enjoy their jobs. One of them was Theodore Roosevelt, whom you may remember, when he was asked, when he retired from the White House, how he had liked being president, responded, "I have had a billy time." I put the same question to Mayor Thompson a few days ago, and his reply, in slightly different words was to the same effect.

For a sidelight on the mayor's character let me cite a little incident which happened the other day. He had just finished reading his Lincoln day program to a group of newspaper men and city officials, when he discovered that he had referred to Kentucky as a state. He asked the members of the group around him if Kentucky is not a "Commonwealth." The Massachusetts. There were various guesses but no accurate knowledge. Then the regular program was started to get the facts in and started trying to get the facts in some of the highest educational authorities in the city. They did not know. They did not know books on "Commonwealths." The Massachusetts. There were various guesses but no accurate knowledge. ## COAST IS SPLIT ON THE JAPANESE PROBLEM

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—Split four ways from the middle over the Japanese immigration question, the Pacific coast state will carry to Washington to day before the new administration at least a quartet of different solutions to be embodied in the new treaty or convention now being negotiated with Japan. Here are some of them:

One. That of the Exclusive League of California—which must be considered as California's official solution. This will call for the out and out exclusion of Japanese labor and, of course, at least the implied recognition of her new alien land-law which prohibits the ownership of land by Japanese, or their leasing land, or their control of it in various other ways.

Two. That of K. K. Kawakami, Japanese author, known to be very close to the Imperial government of Japan. His solution calls for full recognition of the Japanese already in the United States—though not necessarily for their admission to citizenship—and the stoppage by Japan of further emigration of her subjects to America, with certain limited exceptions.

Three. That sponsored by many prominent coast citizens—particularly in the states of Washington and Oregon. They would see that Justice is done the Japanese now here. Americanize them by granting citizenship to such who by length of residence and general character might qualify for it, and put up the bar high and tight against the coming of new oriental labor.

Four. That of the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco. This club, one of the most looked-up-to organizations in the west and with a membership of close on to 2,000, has gone on record as favoring not only the drastic exclusion of oriental labor permanently, but for a period of two years to stop the immigration of all unskilled labor from Europe or elsewhere.

Up to Harding

This does not mean, of course, that each state will bombard Washington with special delegations. It does mean, however, that these will be among the solutions pressed upon President Harding and his secretary of state before March 4.

Out here opinions differ on what "fair treatment" of the Japanese means, and the discussion, beyond the shadow of a doubt, will be carried to Washington to be continued there between the national capital and Tokyo.

"We must treat the Japanese who are already in our country fairly," J.

HEALTH COMES TO LAD THROUGH ADVERTISING

Despairing Parents, As the Last Resort, Choose Remedy Heard of Through This Newspaper—Boy Is Now Well and Robust

It would hardly occur to you that a miracle could be worked through advertising—one that aived to doiling parents the life of their only son! Strange as it may seem, that is just exactly what has been accomplished in a specific instance right here in Altoona. We all have heard volumes about the value of advertising, but that great results achieved by it should save life, almost passes our belief. However here are the facts in the case.

Paul McCartney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon McCartney, residing at 2122 Walnut avenue, was ill and who on October 14 last celebrated the 14th anniversary of his birthday, took sick again. His illness rapidly assumed such a critical aspect that his life was despaired of. The parents in their frantic efforts to save his life, called to different medical practitioners and at different times had him admitted to both city hospitals.

DIAGNOSED TUBERCULOSIS. The lad was diagnosed by the physicians as tuberculous and it was suggested that the parents keep the boy out of doors, day and night and send him entirely on a milk and egg diet. In compliance, the parents had an army bed placed in the back porch, had it properly screened and there, the sufferer reduced to a mere skeleton, lay day and night, his life ebbing.

SICK HEADACHES FOR YEARS

Nothing Gave Relief Until He Tried "Fruit-a-lives"

160 CAROLINE AVE., OGDENSBURG, N.Y.

"I suffered for four years with Nervous Sick Headache and Dyspepsia. Tried doctors—ate bran gels—took all kinds of remedies—but nothing did me any good until I used 'Fruit-a-lives' or Fruit Liver Tablets.

Kawakami's contention is that the Japanese now in this country must be guaranteed the same privileges accorded to aliens coming from "the most favored country."

"This does not mean," the gifted son of Nippon told me, "that they should necessarily be granted citizenship. Japan will not ask for it if no state intentionally attempts to discriminate against the Japanese under guise of legislating against all aliens."

Three Exceptions

"Japan," he went on, "must, on her part, agree to stop her subjects from emigrating to America, with these exceptions:

"Regularly established independent Japanese business men of agriculturists who were married before they left Japan should be allowed to send for their wives, or be allowed to return to Japan and marry and bring their wives back with them, within a reasonable time. Second, Japanese children of a certain age, say up to 13 or 14, should be allowed to join their parents regularly established in this country, and upon whom they depend for support. Third, Japanese lawfully admitted to this country and with domestic established, should be allowed to visit Japan and return within a reasonable time."

Spreckels' Views

Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, one of the ablest thinkers of the coast and a great progressive, agrees with the Commonwealth club as to the control of all immigration from whatever country and believes with his state in drastic measures against the Japanese.

Diplomat J. Gage, former secretary of the treasury, takes the opposite view.

"There are no differences between the United States and Japan," he told me at the Cuyamaca club in San Diego, "which cannot be settled in friendly way."

Describing the agitation in California, he continued:

"California should not be afraid of

of her total population. Taking the land away from them drives them to the cities at a time when our food supply is not keeping up with our increase in population. Japanese imports last year raised $67,000,000 worth of food. Why export them from the farms when we are not producing enough to feed our own people? What California wants is not a policy of legal persecution leveled against Japanese now here, but an immigration policy which will protect the state, against a further influx of oriental labor."

Heal Problem

A congressional investigating committee could fill volumes with strongly voiced opinions were such a body to take the time to journey up and down the Pacific coast. It would get an earful of honest convictions, pro and con; and then an earful of propaganda, both ways; and yet again with political dope for to it known the Japanese problem has become a profitable subject in many a half-wick out here.

But it would carry away this impression if it took away nothing else:

There is a Japanese problem, out here of a size and a significance not appreciated in the east and least of all in Washington. And this problem must be got out of the way before it becomes a real sore and festers and the peace of the world disturbed.

I have found that where there are but few Japanese they are invariably liked but where they are "colonized" in large numbers and in direct competition with Americans, there is friction and bad feeling. Be right and wrong where they may, there is no disguising the fact the friction is there, and if Japan and the United States wish to remain good friends, the diplomats of Washington and Tokyo must open up a way to a permanent adjustment.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Slaughter House Problem Discussed at Regular Meeting of Directors

At the regular meeting of the board of 1921 directors of the chamber of commerce held in the chamber rooms yesterday considerable time was given over to the discussion of the proposed slaughter house project for the Harvard Brewery plant. It was decided that a committee should be appointed to investigate the proposition.

This committee will make a thorough survey of conditions surrounding such an establishment and will carry its investigation into other cities where such plants are working. One of the important matters the committee will consider is the number of employees the plant would handle which will be estimated from information gained from investigation outside the city.

The committee on the program of work for the chamber, which was recently appointed, and of which Robert F. Marden is the chairman, submitted its report this noon which was approved by the board.

The report was approved follows:

The basic principle underlying chamber of commerce effort of whatever nature is to promote Lowell spirit.

By means of the following grouped lines of work your committee believes that the basic principle can be fostered:

Municipal Affairs, trade development, transportation, special efforts. These may be sub-divided along the following lines:

First, municipal affairs—Improvement of streets.

Fire protection and fire prevention.

Advocacy of revised building laws and

PLEA FOR SHEDD PARK

Former Mayor O'Donnell
Urges Council to Keep Faith With Giver

After the budget session of the municipal council had been adjourned yesterday, but while most of the members were in the vicinity of the meeting room, Mayor Thompson summoned a special session of the body to listen to a plea for the liberal treatment of the appropriation to be made for the care and improvement of Shedd park, made by former Mayor James E. O'Donnell, who said that he appeared in behalf of a committee of the Community Service.

Mr. O'Donnell said that he felt that the city should live up to the implied pledge that it made when it accepted the gift of the property from Freeman Ballard Shedd. He read the following letter from Mr. Shedd, addressed to John F. Meehan, mayor of Lowell, when the gift was made, July 14, 1910:

"I have acquired title to a tract of land containing fifty acres, more or less, which is situated south of Knapp Avenue and adjoining Fort Hill park, and I offer to the city of Lowell for their acceptance under the following conditions:

"First: That it shall forever be used as a park and recreation or playground for the citizens and children of the city of Lowell, and for no other purpose.

"Second: That no building or structure shall be erected on the land except such as is adapted and required for use in connection with said park and playground.

"Third: That the city will, within a reasonable time, proceed to develop and prepare the ground for such uses on the lines indicated by accompanying plan furnished by E. W. Bowditch civil engineer of Boston.

"Fourth: That I shall have the right to erect, subject to the approval of the park commission, a suitable gate-way and the entrance, with a tablet or tablets thereon with the following inscription: 'Shedd Playground. A gift to the City of Lowell by Freeman Ballard Shedd, A. D. 1910.'

Plan Big St. Patrick's Day Parade

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Announcement was made today by Roderick J. Kennedy, chairman of a committee planning celebration of St. Patrick's day, that sympathizers of the Sinn Fein cause this year would make the occasion a demonstration against the "outrages and acts of savagery now being perpetrated by an alien oppressor." The celebration will include a parade on Fifth avenue.

BOSTON, Feb. 14.—The Evening Record which two months ago was reduced in price from two cents a copy to one cent announced today a return to the former price. The increase will be effective tomorrow. Falling off in the volume of advertising due to abnormal business conditions and the newsprint situation, are given in the announcement as the reasons for the return to the two cent price.

thanking Freeman Ballard Shedd for this gift which was passed in board of aldermen and the common council and which stated in substance "that the city council fully appreciates the magnanimous gift of Freeman Ballard Shedd for the benefit of her citizens for all time."

Mr. O'Donnell said that the city had done little in the way of development of Shedd park since the gift was accepted. It is an obligation that the city owes that the work of improving this property shall be properly and promptly done, he said.

Mr. O'Donnell said that it would be an encouragement to others to make similar gifts to the city if the park were developed as it should be, and said he understood that the Shedd heirs were holding in trust a large sum of money that would come to the city for park purposes if the agreement to improve the park were properly carried out.

The matter was taken under advisement by the council.

JOHN H. HAMMOND TALKS

Expresses Opposition to the Erection of an Impenetrable
Tariff Wall

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Opposition to the erection of an impenetrable tariff wall was expressed by John Hays Hammond at the annual meeting of the national civic federation today.

"Fortunately there is a growing disposition," he said, "to regard the tariff as an economic rather than a political issue, as evidenced by the generalization of the free trade feeling in many sections of the southern states."

"As a creditor nation, we are faced with the danger of being impaled upon one of the two horns of the dilemma in the liquidation of Europe's indebtedness to us. Europe cannot pay over the interest upon its debts. It is held in a position of payment in which is altogether to our advantage. If we accept the products of Europe in payment, we must greatly curtail the operations of our own mills involving widespread unemployment and consequent industrial distress. It would be even better for us to cancel European debts than to risk this danger. On the other hand, if we place an embargo on the product of our allies, they will not be able to repay their loans." This liquidation process would be greatly aided, he declared, if a definite total indemnity were fixed for Germany to pay. "An indeterminate indemnity on the one hand," he said, "or a sum impossible of realization, on the other, would be a suicidal policy for allies themselves."

Regarding immigration, Mr. Hammond said the numbers admitted should conform to the needs of industry and at the same time avoid congestion of the labor market. Immigrants, he said, should be selected so that they would be assimilated easily.

REVIVAL OF COTTON IN-DUSTRY INDICATED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Revival of the cotton manufacturing industry which for some months has been on the decline, is indicated in the January cotton consumption report issued today by the census bureau. There was an increase of 71,419 bales in consumption of lint cotton during January as compared with December when consumption reached the lowest point it had been in six years with a total of 294,551 bales. Consumption during the six months ended January 31, was 800,000 bales less than in the same period last year, the total being 2,833,855 bales. Cotton spinners active during January numbered 3,230,558 less than operated during January, 1920, while last December showed 4,703,753 less than the previous December. In cotton growing states active spinners number only 276,105 less than in January a year ago, while December showed 365,535 less than the previous December.

Lint cotton on hand Jan. 31 totalled 6,918,435 bales of lint in consuming establishments and in public storage and at compresses, compared with 5,710,655 bales on that date a year ago.

LYNN, Feb. 14.—A petition for the recall of Mayor Walter H. Crearer was filed with the city clerk today by representatives of local labor interests. It arraigned the mayor for his attitude during the strike at the Little-Jones shoe factory and asserted that his conduct was autocratic and that he had belittled the city council. Under the law 32,000 signatures are required for a recall petition. The present petition purports to contain 4000 names. After they are verified by the city clerk, the petition will go before the city council for action.

GAMES TONIGHT
Fall River at Lowell
Providence at New Bedford.

POLO NOTES

Fred Jean, Frank Hardy, etc., from Fall River will play Lowell at the Crescent rink tonight.

A week ago tonight Fall River played Lowell here and after a spirited game Lowell won out. In that game the wonderful goal-tending of Bill Blaauw gave his side Lowell victory. The "spikes" went out in a break-blown defense策 and a real battle royal is expected.

Al Davies will be back in the local lineup tonight after a short stay with Hartford. He is delighted to be here and will be back with the team on Saturday. Paulie Harkins, the star Harkins took Davies fresh from the amateur ranks a year ago and brought him along at a rapid stride, until he became a first class rusher. Davies was not at his best this season because of the numerous men with whom he had to work. He has worked with Bob Hart, George Hart, S. Arthur, T. Welsh, White, and others. He is now back with Lowell and wants to help Hart to team up with Ted Lewis. The various changes did not give him a chance to show to advantage. Back with Harkins he and his many friends feel that he will again be one of the most successful rushers in the league.

OLDEST SHOE STORE
CLOSES ITS DOORS

After 44 years of continual business under the same management, the doors of the E. E. Hill Shoe store has been closed and Mr. Hill, the active proprietor and manager since the opening of the store, will retire to quiet life.

Forty-four years ago, Mr. Hill started his shoe business in the Bacon block on Merrimack street, and remained in this location for seven years. He then moved to his present location, 287 Central street. Here he continued to serve his clientele with high grade service and quality, and are the interesting changes that he has made that have taken place in the shoe business. He rightly feels proud of the fact that his store is the only one that has survived all through these years, and he attributes it only to one thing—his square dealing with his customers and the high standard of his merchandise.

Paul Gagnon, that his health needs more attention, he decided to retire from active business after 44 years of successful dealing with the public. He sold his entire stock of shoes to The Gagnon Co., who moved it to their store on Merrimack and Palmer streets.

Cadillac Ease of Control

Gear shifting is smooth, but not often necessary after starting, on account of the unusual flexibility of the Cadillac eight-cylinder engine. The overlapping of the power impulses, four to every revolution of the crankshaft, produces a continuous pulling power at low speed, with abundant reserve for the quick getaway on the steep hill. One travels with almost no shifting, under perfect throttle control. Ease of Cadillac control amounts to a fascination.

USED CARS

There is practically no wear out to the mechanism of a Cadillac car. It is substantial and secure in the first place, and the adjustments provided are more than probably will ever be needed.

Mayor is "Astounded" at This Year's Costs for Snow Removal

At a regular session of the municipal council today, a loan order for $60,000, that had been advertised in the newspapers as required by law, the proceeds of which are to be used for the "construction" of bridges, was passed by a unanimous vote. After the regular business of the session had been disposed of, the budget estimates for the street department were taken up. When the estimate of the cost of snow removal for the year, $50,000, was reached, Mayor Perry D. Thompson asked Commissioner Murphy how much had been spent thus far this year on keeping the streets open. When the commissioner stated that $600 had been spent after the first storm and $600 after the one of last week, making a total of $12,000, the mayor said that he was "astounded" at the size of the charge.

Kearney Explains

HOUSTON NOTIFIED TO HALT PAYMENTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Secretary Houston was notified today that he "should pay out no more money in account of emergency loans to foreign countries until the facts have been submitted to this committee, and it has had an opportunity to consider the same and report to the committee."

The committee's action was by unanimous vote and was taken on motion of Senator Read, Democrat, Missouri, author of a pending resolution to stop all emergency loans to foreign countries until the facts have been submitted to this committee, and it has had an opportunity to consider the same and report to the committee."

Senators Read and Brandegee said additional could be advanced to foreign governments.

Examination of Secretary Houston on this question scheduled for today was postponed until tomorrow, as he advised the committee that the papers in the files of the treasury had not yet been assembled. He promised to appear tomorrow and bring all documents referring to loan negotiations with foreign countries.

WITNESS IN MURDER TRIAL KIDNAPPED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 15.—County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton was informed today what action would be taken concerning the kidnapping of A. J. Babbitt of Bradley, who had volunteered to testify for the state in the trial of Judge William H. Metcalf, charged with the second degree murder of Harold C. Kagi.

Stanton received a telegram from Babbitt at Connellsville, Pa., saying that he had been kidnapped Thursday as he was starting for Cleveland from Bradley.

Babbitt said he was en route from Bradley to Dillonvale, the nearest railroad station, on Thursday night when he was seized by three men, thrown into a taxicab, bound and gagged. After riding several hours in which he rode for two days. On Saturday he was thrown from the machine at Dawson, Pa., near Connellsville, after the men had taken $67 in cash.

"If you ever return to Cleveland, we will kill you," Babbitt said he was warned. He had feared to report the matter until yesterday.

FINAL CONFERENCE ON MAKEUP OF CABINET

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 15.—President-elect Harding and his campaign manager, Will H. Hays, chairman of the republican national committee, got down to brass tacks today in a final preinauguration conference on the makeup of the cabinet and the first steps of the coming administration. Mr. Hays generally is considered by those close to the president-elect as a likely choice for a place in the cabinet and his position as the titular head of the party was considered as giving him an influential voice in the determination of many questions involving both patronage and policies. The conference was expected to last the greater part of the day. Although no definite announcement was made, it was indicated that the most serious problems ahead of the new administration were under consideration.

Bills for Control of Sale of Securities Favored by Atty. Gen. Allen

Just for That Complainant in Robbery Case Picks Out Wrong One

Declares Bay State "Happy Hunting Ground for Questionable Schemes"

Court Overlooks Mistake Because of Resemblance and Defendant is Held

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Massachusetts is one of the few places either in this country or Europe where the unrestricted sale of fraudulent securities is permitted. Attorney General J. Weston Allen said today before a legislative committee, considering recommendations of a "blue sky commission" of which he is chairman. The state, he said, is becoming a happy hunting ground for promoters of questionable investments.

The commission submitted three bills to control the sale of securities and described by Mr. Allen as intended to prevent such promoters as Charles Ponzi from repeating their depredations on the public. Epidemic of "blue sky" legislation has naturally followed in the wake of a great war, the attorney general said.

Three-quarters of the states of the union have taken action while this state has done nothing so far as legislation is concerned, to prevent the exploitation of biggetons.

In Europe the problem has been approached better than in this country. There the sale of fraudulent securities is much more restricted than here; but the problem is easier there.

"In the United States we have sovereign states, each with the power of creating corporations and allowing them to issue securities which have a prima facie value shown on the certificates of stock to be sold in other states where the people who are not familiar with investments have no means of knowing that perhaps no part of the value of the certificate is back of the certificate."

The state is in a very real sense a partner in the sale of fraudulent securities when it allows to be issued under its sanction certificates which purport to represent a definite value and the problem has not been solved or met by the change in legislation authorizing shares to be issued at no par value."

COUNSEL FOR MAYOR O'CALLAGHAN APPEALS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Counsel for Mayor O'Callaghan, 3rd mayor of Cora, sought today to have the state department reconsider its decision that their client was without rights as a political refugee and subject to deportation because of his arrival in America as a stowaway without a passport.

Department officials said careful consideration would be given the claim of O'Callaghan's claim but it was intimated that the department still reards the case as one for the deporta-

Held at Washington Navy

Superior Officer Charged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—An enlisted man of the navy is under arrest at the navy yard here in connection with a plot to blow up the presidential yacht Mayflower.

Federal agents and the Washington police are working on the case, it was stated today, prodding on the theory that the plot may have extended to the ships and other vessels at the navy yard.

The man, until arrest, whose name was not disclosed, was said to have approached a superior officer and offered him a bribe to allow a package, supposed to have contained a bomb, to be brought aboard the Mayflower at a certain hour. Federal agents were notified and the man was arrested.

An appointment the man made with another person at a park here, where he was supposed to receive the package, was kept by federal agents but the package was not delivered.

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—After surprising a robber in his home at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, struggling with the man for half an hour during which time he was shot and clubbed, Harry E. Archibald of 13 Clark Street, Malden, overpowered his assailant, pushed the man's face through a window and wrenched the gun away. Then he turned the revolver on the robber and held it to his head while the intruder telephoned to the Malden police station for the wagon squad of officers that took him away.

Several requests have been received from other cities asking for the use of the Dollar-Day signs originated here in Lowell, but they have been turned down by the chamber. A Dollar-Day will be staged in Haverhill within two weeks, and the chamber of commerce of that city requested the use of the Lowell design. With the exception of a chance in color and date, the same Dollar-Day design will be used again in this city.

The committee on committees will hold a meeting at the chamber on Friday at noon.

Charter Hearing

The chamber of commerce will not be represented at the hearing on the proposed city charter before the legislative committee on cities in Boston on Thursday.

This decision has been handed down by the Board of directors because the attitude of the chamber members has not been sounded out.

It had been thought previously that the organization would have a representative at the hearing to promote the stand of the members, but the directors came to the decision that there is time enough for the chamber to voice its stand.

Secondly, the present plan is for the chamber to sit tight and await the outcome of the charter at the hands of the committee. If it passes, then the whole will be set in motion to grant out the attitude of the chamber members.

In doing this, charter discussions meetings will undoubtedly be held with a view to educating the people in its provisions. The officers of the chamber members will undoubtedly be assembled by the referendum method in this way it is thought that the Lowell point will be thoroughly acquainted with the charter and it is presented to them.

DARING PLOT OF REDS UNCOVERED

Overthrow of Governments of France, Italy and Spain on May 1 Planned

Funds Transmitted Through American Firm — Plot Doomed

PARIS, Feb. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—Overthrow of the bourgeois governments of Spain, Italy and France is outlined in documents seized after a thorough search yesterday, following discovery of a widespread communist plot. The date fixed by the communists for this event was May 1, 1921.

The contemplated arrest of two communist members of the chamber of deputies, alleged plot against whom Judge Jousset has delivered to M. Marraud, minister of the interior, seems to have brought the French public to a realization of the importance of the attempt against the security of the state.

Discoveries made by the police of Barcelona and Milan show that the plot included the three European Latin countries. Transmission of funds was effected through an American financial organization, with European headquarters in Paris, and branches in Berlin and Vienna.

Soviets have been organized throughout France with Brest as the headquarters, according to the police. Considerable increase over last year, ready to take over the railroads, banks, trade and transportation and all civil services. The plot appears to have been commanded by the finance committee of M. You must pay your body to make rich, red blood Rich, red blood is the source of vital power. It repairs the daily wastage of the body—builds new tissue—creates vital energy—makes red lips—sparkling eyes—and rosy cheeks.

But when the blood loses its richness—becomes impoverished—the whole bodily health suffers. The vital energy becomes exhausted—the nerves get shaky—the vitality diminishes—and we get weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down. To restore the richness of the blood, the body must be supplied with those materials which make rich, red blood. In other words, the body must be paid to make rich red blood.

Lack of rich, red blood makes you

Weak—Anaemic—Nervous—Run-down

In almost every case of weakness, impoverished blood, nervousness and run-down vitality, there is a real shortage in the body of several mineral elements which are absolutely essential to the creation of vital energy. These elements are, particularly, Iron, Calcium, Potassium, Sodium and Phosphorus. Therefore all these must be restored to the body to enable it to repair the vital energy which has been expended and to pay the body for the work it does. All of these elements are contained in Wincarnis in appropriate proportions and agreeable form. So that by taking Wincarnis when you are weak, or anaemic, or nervous, or run-down, you restore the very mineral elements which enable the body to create vital energy—to make the blood rich and red—in strengthen the nerves—and promote abundant vigor, vitality and endurance.

Choose the right way to health

Get well—but get well in a logical way. Use great care in your choice. Remember this important fact: when the body requires a variety of mineral elements—it must have all of them. No amount of any single one will do. For instance, Iron is excellent for making blood red. But no amount of iron alone will be sufficient when the body requires Iron, and Calcium, and Potassium, and Sulfur, and Phosphorus, as it does in the majority of cases of weakness, impoverished blood, nervousness and run-down vitality.

Wincarnis contains all of these because it is prepared especially for weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down men and women. Over 10,000 physicians have recommended Wincarnis. Your druggist has your bottle ready for you. Try just one bottle.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THE STRANGE FLOWER

NANCY HANDED THEIR HOST THE LITTLE WHITE FLOWER SHE BROUGHT AND HE PUT IT INTO A CRYSTAL VASE

Nick put the golden key he had taken from his key of charms into the lock of the bright little star's front door. Instantly the door was open and the star invited them to enter.

"It's a fine thing you had it along, Nick," said he gratefully, "or we should all have been locked out for good. Perhaps it'd better go in first and show you the way."

The instant the star stepped inside his little house of clear glass, the walls suddenly glittered as though someone had lighted a thousand candles. The illumination was so bright that the twins had to shade their eyes. They could well imagine the earth children were saying, "Oh, there is another star! It has just come out!"

After this they would know better themselves. They would say hereafter, "Oh, there is a new star. It has just come in!"

Nancy handed their host the little white flower she had brought and he put it into a crystal vase. "I must keep this little mountain flower always," said the star lovingly. "How long I have admired it! It looks just like a star itself." Then he pulled up chairs around a table, and asked his guests坐下, which they did. Nick settling his Box of Charms in front of him.

"Now," went on the Star, "if you will show me your wonderful map, perhaps I can tell you how to reach the South Pole. I know a secret way."

It was very strange, but suddenly the white flower in the vase started to shake and Nancy was sure she smelled something, the perfume used by the wicked wizard, their enemy. At the same time the map started to slide away as though some invisible power were moving it.

Nick clutched the map tightly.

THE SAVINGS BANK BILL

Favorable Report on Bill Presented on Petition of Edward B. Carney

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Feb. 15.—The legislative committee on banks and banking filed yesterday a favorable report on the bill presented on petition of Edward B. Carney of Lowell, that savings banks be permitted to maintain and operate safe deposit vaults and to rent boxes therein.

This bill makes legal an agreement which was entered into between the former bank commissioner and the officials of two of Lowell's savings banks, and which the attorney-general, after the banks had erected their new buildings, decided to be illegal.

Putnam a Dissenter

Senator Frank H. Putnam of Lowell has caused himself to be recorded as dissenter from the report of the committee on highways and motor vehicles on the bill to repeal the act of last year establishing a right of way for vehicles at intersections of streets.

The committee voted to turn down the bill and to stand by the law passed last year, which provides that the vehicle approaching from the right shall have the right of way. Senator Putnam favors going back to the old system under which the driver on the more important thoroughfare had the right of way.

Adverse Reports

Adverse committee reports were filed yesterday on the following bills:

That women need not state their exact ages when registering to vote;

For abolition of capital punishment. Representatives Abbott of Haverhill, Hays of Boston, McCormack of Boston and Stephens of Randolph dissent.

That the chief of the police department in each city except Boston be required to distribute automobile and motorcycle number plates to these making application thereto.

Prohibiting the equipment of motor vehicles with cut-outs which can be used when such vehicles are being operated on public ways.

Authorizing an investigation by the department of public works to determine the best method for distributing number plates for motor vehicles.

Restricting the examination of state's books of corporations to the legitimate purposes of the corporation.

That all local rent committees be given full authority to make binding decisions in rent cases.

Actress Tells Secret

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture

Joey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it with a home-made mixture:

"Any one can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1/2 cup of bay rum, a small box of Barolo Compound, and 1/2 cup of olive oil.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not stain clothes."

URGES U. S. TO CANCEL DEBTS OF ALLIES

ROME, Feb. 14.—Cancellation of the debts of allied nations by the United States is urged by the Tribune in an editorial on the economic and financial situation in Europe. "Only by total or partial extinguishment of their debts," the newspaper asserts, "can the nations of the old world find salvation. Otherwise, the New York bankers may transform all Europe into an immense Germany, crushing victors and vanquished alike in a financial vice. How can Italy pay her debts abroad when Austria can pay her nothing? Why should Italy issue from the war crushed by debt when Czechoslovakia, for instance, comes out owing almost nothing? The United States is in a position of overwhelming superiority but is threatened to be imprisoned by that very superiority. Only total or partial cancellation of Europe's debts can reopen to America the material and moral powers of Europe and save her from solitude in which, like Midas, she may die in a sea of gold."

POWER OF PRESIDENT

The president's power is almost unlimited. Mrs. Claude T. Gilson told her audience at the Middlesex Women's Club yesterday afternoon, "Her topic

"The Power of the President and His Cabinet." President Wilson's difficulty, she stated, has been lack of tact, rather than seeking to exceed his powers. Roosevelt utilized this power, said the speaker, but he had the knack of "getting away with it." She pointed out the fact that since political parties first began to function in the United States, up to the era of Lincoln, mediocrity succeeded mediocrity in the president's chair. Mr. Harding, she stated, is finding it somewhat of a task to select a cabinet which will act for the welfare of the public and at the same time placate the gentleman who secured his nomination.

FIRES AT MANCHESTER

Laid to Sini Fein But No Evidence—Disturbance in Catholic Church

MANCHESTER, Eng., Feb. 15.—A number of alleged attempts to fire factories here have caused some excitement, although the blazes started were extinguished without damage. Wads of waste soaked with petrol were said to be found near where the fires were started. This led to the announcement by the police that it was all the work of the Sinn Fein.

There was a remarkable scene at the celebration of mass at the Church of Corpus Christi yesterday. Fr. McGeekin had just finished reading Cardinal Hennessy's pastoral letter on the Irish question when a member of the congregation called out: "I protest as a Catholic and an Irishman against an Englishman attacking us. It is disgraceful!"

Considerable excitement followed, and "Hail, Hail" shouted from all parts of the church. In his pastoral letter Cardinal Bourne ordered that the old pastor letter written by Cardinal Manning during the Fenian risings in 1867, and appealing to Irishmen in London to take no sides in the dispute, should be read.

FIRST BIG GUN IN Y. W. C. A. CAMPAIGN

This is destined to be an eventful evening at the Y.W.C.A. when the already well-organized campaign for $17,000 is to be ushered in with a formal dinner to which all hidden campaign teams with their captains, chairman of all committees, and specially invited guests, besides. Dinner is announced for five thirty, as much of the work is to be done before the end of the evening. Miss Bradt, president of the board of directors of the association, will preside at the dinner, following which an interesting order of events will take place, thus:

"We'll Cheer Y.W.C.A."

"Hail, Hail, the Gang All Here."

"Good Evening, All You Campaign Workers."

Opening Remarks ..... Miss Bradt

Y.W.C.A. Service to Lowell

Mr. Goodell

What the Y.W.C.A. Means to Me

Marian Carleton

Songs:

"Every Girl in Lowell."

"Listen, Listen, Lowell People."

Address ..... Mr. McGeekin

Selling the Y.W.C.A.

Miss Helen Barnes

Final Campaign Instructions

Miss Roosevelt

Song:

"Come Sing a Song to Keep Us All Humming."

There is no apprehension as to the interest which this opening event of the campaign is bound to have with the campaigners, who are already to within ready for the signal tomorrow morning to be off toward the goal which has been set.

Electric blowers are used to produce soap bubbles in the musical comedy, "Tinkle Me."

Doubtless may now be removed by means of a new electrical vibration mechanism.

LLOYD GEORGE

It is said that the Lloyd George ministry is threatened by troubles that are pressing for settlement. We do not believe the ministry is in any danger. The premier is an unrivaled artist in turning away the wrath of the people. Whenever he finds public sympathy turning against him, it happens that some of the Scotland Yard detectives discover an alleged Sinn Fein plot to blow up the oil works in London, the parliament buildings, the docks at Liverpool or the mills of Manchester. Then a few men found lurking in the vicinity of these places are arrested, held as suspects for a time and let go without any evidence to support any criminal charge against them. But the English people believe these stories and once more the government is applauded for saving the empire. Even the "Irish navy" has been brought up as a bogey and while Lloyd George is disgracing England by the barbarous treatment of Ireland, yet he is able to convince the people of England that every policy he adopts is necessary to save the empire.

Since the war, the people are very gullible when it comes to spreading alarm in regard to plots against the nation. Lloyd George has the unshakable cunning, the lack of principle and political sagacity to turn every unimportant movement to his own advantage and at the same time hold the confidence of the people. He can change his position to meet new situations with the agility of a monkey on a tree and the people not comprehending his political tactics, finally conclude that the premier is right. That is why we say that he will overcome the difficulties that now threaten his ministry.

TEXTILE OUTLOOK GOOD

Treasurer Greene of the Pacific Mills in Lawrence speaks in a very optimistic vein of the outlook for the textile industry in New England. He recounts the difficulties through which the industry passed during last year when there came a great cancellation of orders resulting from a refusal of the people to purchase at the prevailing prices. He asserts that the textile industry being the first to feel the radical wave of deflation and to adjust its business accordingly, will also be the first to get back on full time in the return to normal conditions.

While emphasizing the fact that the depression has not entirely passed, and that caution must be exercised in all lines of business, he nevertheless feels that not only textile manufacturers but other lines of business are fully warranted in looking forward to an early return of prosperous conditions.

One of the deductions to be made from Mr. Greene's review of conditions in the textile industry is, that inasmuch as the surplus stocks in the domestic market have been pretty well cleared away, unless there is ample tariff protection, there will be an influx of foreign-made goods to supply the domestic market. He asserts that if the textile industry starts up on full time with all machinery in operation, the domestic market will absorb its entire product without any need of export. But without a protective tariff, part of this demand will be supplied by foreign manufacturers to the injury of home production. These reasons will fully justify a reasonable protective tariff for the textile industry against the threatened danger.

EDISON'S VAGARIES

Nothing is more striking than the foolish things some otherwise great men say when they touch upon the spiritual domain. There is Edison for example, who is quoted as saying:

"There has always been a certain amount of life and there always will be the same amount. You cannot create life; you cannot destroy life; you cannot multiply life."

Edison is said to be working upon a machine by which he hopes to establish this theory scientifically. He expects also to be able to communicate with the dead through his "immortality machine." Just as if there were any relation between the human soul and the energy of electricity which is of material origin.

MORE PERENNIALS

There is an array of bills before the legislature, the purpose of which is to restrict the advertising of proprietary medicines. These bills are but a repetition of efforts made but previous years to place all this advertising under state control. That would be an extreme step and one that would be unfair to a number of standard remedies, the merit of which is generally conceded.

Twenty million dollars in models was paid for telephone conversations last year, and we will wager that a goodly part of the confab was not worth the price.

President Coolidge says: "Nothing surpasses the possibilities for service that are vested in a great newspaper commanding the public confidence." Thank you.

Proprietary drugs, blow out your lanterns! Your long search is over—here's a light, incident which happened the other day. He had just finished reading the Lincoln day piece, written to a group of newspaper men and city officials, when he discovered that he had referred to Kentucky as a state. He asked the members of the group around him if Kentucky is not a "commonwealth" like Massachusetts. There were various answers, but no accurate knowledge. Then the mayor started trying to get the facts in the case. Some of the highest medical authorities in the city were consulted. They didn't know. Books were consulted. They were equally uninformative. Finally one of the young employees in the city solicitor's office informed that Kentucky is a "commonwealth" and gave a good reason for his belief. The mayor continued his quest until he found a book from some where that gave full and understandable terms that Kentucky is a "commonwealth." This book is in undecipherable terms that the mayor didn't understand. "It is a commonwealth," the only one in the country outside of Massachusetts.

"No real effect for you if you sleep," says the cost operator. And it is a rather unreasonable proposition owing to the fact that the 12% per cent. tax on exports to be imposed by the allies will have the same effect as a discriminating tariff against the United States. If that be persisted in, the United States will not be able to insist on Germany to any great extent. Moreover, it will place an injunction upon German trade that will prevent the expansion of anything like our war proportions. If this heavy tax were not imposed, there is no doubt that Germany would soon establish a vastia result?

Much longer is it a question, and the answer is not a long one. The reason is that the only one in the country outside of Massachusetts is the mayor. Your negotiator is a solicitor William D. Jordan. You might think to read some of his communica-

SEEN AND HEARD

According to reports from some colleges, students have been turning their backs into bootlegs.

The Fletcher street car has become stage material. A fellow at Keith's talked about it last week.

A man who married eight women complains that Sing Sing is lonely; go to him, you'd think he'd be glad of the occasion.

Many a fellow who talks about the ignorance and boorishness of the other fellow ought to examine his own conscience.

Redeeming Trait

"I know I'm old, but I'm crazy about you," stated Mr. Moneybags. "When I go I'll leave all my fortune to you if you'll have me."

"Have you any bad habits?" asked Miss Goldilocks, thoughtfully.

"Only that I walk in my sleep, if you could call that a bad habit."

"You dear old thing. Of course I'll marry you. And we'll have our honeymoon on the top floor of some tall hotel, won't we?"—American Legion Weekly.

Sack In Life

Strike and the world strikes with you, work and you work alone; our souls are ablate with a Bolshevik craze, the wildest that ever was known. Groan and there'll be a chorus, smile and you make no hit, for we've grown long hair and we preach despite and show you a daily fit. Spend and the gang will cheer you, save and you have no friend; for we throw our backs to the birds and ducks, and borrow from all who'll lend. Knock and you'll be a winner, boast and you'll be frost; for the old same ways of the pre-war days are now from the program lost. Strike and the world strikes with you, work and you work alone; for we'd rather yell and raise blue —than strive for an honest home. Rant and you are a leader, tell and you are a nut. 'Twas a bitter day when we packed away from the old time work-day rat. Wait and there'll be a blow-up, watch and you'll see a slump, and the fads and crèmes of these crazy times will go to the nation's dump.

The Clothes Question

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, the next "first lady," has this to say on the subject of dress: "I have always felt clothes are tremendously important. No one can afford to be indifferent about them." Well spoken! Most of us like to say that it is what a person is and not what he looks like that counts. But, in reality, we make our first judgments of men on their looks and find out what they are at our leisure. Most of us are engaged in the business of "selling" our personalities. It is sad to reflect, but true, that to attract our customers to our characters, we must give ourselves a certain amount of window-dressing. The function of good clothes is to provide the immediate attraction that personality cannot of itself forthwith attract. Besides compelling the instant attention of others, good clothes also have the quality of an encouraging pat on the back of the wearer. Who has not felt the self-confidence and the pep that a new spring suit, or even a new hat, imparts?

Let's

Let's work and play;
Let's live our day;
Nor let us care and frets;
Let's sing our song;
And push along;
Nor mind the weather;
Let's!

Let's kindly smile;
Nor yield to guile;
Nor tally with regrets;
Let's friendly be;
And hold the key;
To strength and courage;

Let's!
Let's greet the morn;
With hope new born;
And when the kind sun sets
Let's meet the night;
With hearts still light;
And turn to slumber;

—By ALFRED ARNOLD.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players; they have their exits and their entrances, and one man in his time plays many parts.

The stage, as it is set beneath the long bronze eagle atop the city hall tower, has many interesting characters moving back and forth upon it. It is an interesting drama that is unfolded there day after day. The chief characters in the performance are known by name at least to good portion of the city's people. It is as politicians that they are best known, and the man are often two entirely distinct personages. To give a glimpse of the leading characters on the municipal dramatic personae as men in my purpose. In a small corner often on what, I suppose, would be called the second floor of the building, sits Mayor Perry D. Thompson during a part of these days. He is readily accessible to everybody. There is nothing of exordium or red tape about his way of conducting the business of the city. Any one who has a tale to tell that concerns city affairs is equally welcome whether he be prime or an applicant for a job. There have been applicants for public offices with whom he has been in office, with whom he has been out of office, with whom he has been in office, with whom he has been out of office, to be sure, who have seemed to thoroughly enjoy their jobs. One of them was Theodore Roosevelt, who you may remember, when he was asked, when he retired from the White House, how he had liked being president, responded: "I have had a busy time." I put the same question to Mayor Thompson a few days ago, and his reply, in slightly different words was to the same effect.

For a sidelight on the mayor's character let me cite a little incident which happened the other day. He had just finished reading the Lincoln day piece, written to a group of newspaper men and city officials, when he discovered that he had referred to Kentucky as a state. He asked the members of the group around him if Kentucky is not a "commonwealth" like Massachusetts.

WIFE TAKES HUSBANDS ADVICE

And Is Made Well Again by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Springfield, Mass.—"The doctor told my husband that I had to have an operation, otherwise I would be a sickly woman and could not have any more children on account of my weakened condition. I refused to have the operation.

My husband asked me to try Lydia E.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would not help me.

For the first four months I could do but little work, was nervous and could eat hardly anything, but my husband was always reminding me to take the Vegetable Compound, which I did.

Of my eight children this last one was the easiest birth of all and I am thankful for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend it to my friends when I hear them complaining about their ills."—Mrs. M. NATALE, 72 Fremont St., Springfield, Mass.

Sickly, ailing women make unhappy homes, and after reading Mrs. Natale's letter one can imagine how this home was transformed by her restoration to health. Every woman who suffers from such ailments should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It is surely worth while.

COAST IS SPLIT ON THE JAPANESE PROBLEM

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15.—Split four ways from the middle over the Japanese immigration question, the Pacific coast state will carry to Washington to lay before the new administration at least a quartet of different solutions to be embodied in the new treaty or convention now being negotiated with Japan. Here are some of them:

One, that of the exclusion league of California—which must be considered as California's official solution. This will call for the out and out exclusion of Japanese labor and, of course, at least the implied recognition of her new alien land-law which prohibits the ownership of land by Japanese, or their leasing land, or their control of it in various other ways.

Two, that of K. K. Hawkshaw, Japanese author, known to be very close to the imperial government of Japan. His solution calls for fair treatment of the Japanese already in the United States—though not necessarily for their admission to citizenship—and the stopping by Japan of further emigration of her subjects to America, with certain limited exceptions.

Three, that sponsored by many prominent coast citizens—particularly in the states of Washington and Oregon. They would see that justice is done the Japanese now here. Americans like them granting citizenship to such who by length of residence and general character might qualify for it, and put up the bars high and tight against the coming of new oriental labor.

Four, that of the Commonwealth club of San Francisco. The club, one of the most looked-up-to organizations in the west and with a membership of close on to 3000, has gone on record as favoring not only the drastic exclusion of oriental labor permanently, but for a period of two years to stop the immigration of all unskilled labor from Europe or elsewhere.

Up to Harding

This does not mean, of course, that each state will bombard Washington with special delegations. It does mean, however, that these will be among the solutions pressed upon President Harding and his secretary of state after March 4.

Out here opinions differ on what "fair treatment" of the Japanese means, and the discussion beyond the shadow of a doubt, will be carried to Washington to be continued there between the national capital and Tokyo.

"We must treat the Japanese who are already in our country fairly," J.

Stephens' opinion: of the state board of control, told me in his office in the state house at Sacramento.

"Would you admit them to citizenship?" I asked.

"No," he replied, "We already have one race problem in America. We do not want another."

As one of the three compilers of the report, "California and the Oriental," he naturally favored the anti-Japanese land law.

Stephens' Opinion

Gov. William D. Stephens of California, however, the Japanese exclusion law should likewise call for the registration of all Japanese lawfully within the United States at the time the act was passed, and, further, that the burden would be upon every Japanese to prove his right to be here by the production of a certificate of registration.

Hawkshaw's contention is that the Japanese now in this country must be guaranteed the same privileges accorded to aliens coming from "the most favored country."

"This does not mean," he writes, "that they should necessarily be granted citizenship, Japan will not ask for it if we state intentionally attempts to discriminate against the Japanese under guise of legislating against all aliens."

Three Exceptions

"Japan," he went on, "must, on her part, agree to stop her subjects from emigrating to America, with these three exceptions:

"Regularly established independent Japanese business men or agriculturists who were married before they left Japan should be allowed to send for their wives, or be allowed to return to Japan and marry and bring their wives back with them, within a reasonable time. Second, Japanese children of a certain age, say up to 12 or 14, should be allowed to join their parents regularly established in this country, and upon whom they depend for support. Third, Japanese lawfully admitted to this country and with domicile established, should be allowed to visit Japan and return within a reasonable time."

Ideal Problem

A congressional investigating committee could fill volumes with strongly voiced opinions were such a body to take the time to journey up and down the Pacific coast. It would get an earful of honest convictions, pro and con; and then an earful of propaganda, both ways; and yet again with political doce, for be it known the Japanese problem has become a profitable subject in many ballroom out here.

Spreckels' Views

Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, one of the ablest thinkers of the coast and a great progressive, agrees with the Commonwealth club as to the control of all immigration from whatever country and believes with his state. In drastic measures against the Japanese. Lyman J. Gage, former secretary of the treasury, takes the opposite view.

"There are no differences between the United States and Japan," he told me at the Chiamaca club in San Diego, "which cannot be settled in a friendly way."

"California should not be afraid of the Japanese, who constitute only 2% of her total population. Taking the land away from them drives them to the cities at a time when our food supply is not keeping up with our increased population. Japanese farmers last year raised $600,000 worth of food. Why expect them from the farms when we are not producing enough to feed our own people? What California wants is not a policy of legal persecution leveled against Japan, nor here, but an immigration policy which will protect the state against a further influx of oriental labor."

Socony Meets the Tests

Socony gasoline meets all these requirements. With Socony you get quick start, even in the coldest weather. This, combined with its absolute uniformity at all times and in all places, partly explains why experienced car owners and motor transport executives specify Socony.

Other and important considerations are complete combustion, maximum power and mileage, freedom from excessive carbon accumulation and from heavy and offensive exhaust odors.

How the Right Quality Gasoline Keeps Battery Costs Low in Winter

A Common Cause of Battery Strain

Gasoline that does not vaporize readily at low temperature accounts for much battery trouble and expense in winter. Spinning a cold motor for several minutes before you can get started puts a big strain on the battery. This is not necessary if you are careful to select gasoline of suitable composition for winter use.

Why You Should Use Straight Distilled Socony Gasoline

For satisfactory and economical operation, gasoline with a low boiling point—gasoline that vaporizes freely at low temperature—is absolutely necessary. Furthermore, it should contain a complete, continuous chain of boiling points, since that alone can insure quick, complete, powerful combustion.

Reliable, Obliging Dealers

Socony dealers constitute the last link in the great chain of Socony service. They are always dependable, competent and obliging—glad to render the little courtesies that make motor service complete. Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

MOTOR GASOLINE

Excessive cost for battery charging and upkeep is not always due to grounds and short circuits. Gasoline that fails to vaporize freely at low temperature may easily be a principal cause. With Socony Motor Gasoline in the tank you can be sure of minimum battery strain—quick pick-up even when the motor is cold.

HEALTH COMES TO LAD THROUGH ADVERTISING

Despairing Parents, As the Last Resort, Choose Remedy Heard of Through This Newspaper—Boy Is Now Well and Robust

The effect was marvelous. In an interview granted to a Times Tribune reporter last evening, pursuant to an inquiry from the Miles Emulsion Co., to whom Mrs. McCartney had sent a letter of appreciation, she said that in three days after taking the remedy, her boy was able to walk with her, and after taking ten bottles, he was wholly restored to health. In explanation of her story, the reporter was shown a small shot of Paul after he had used the emulsion three days ago, was a mere bag of bones as the result of a bad cold with skin drawn tight over the bones.

Then, in contrast, the mother called to a person who was engaged in strenuous play on the street, and in came a lad, vibrant with health and cheeks glowing like the roses. All this in spite of the criticism by a physician, "that he might as well take so much lead."

Paul McCartney, son of Mr. and Mrs. McCarthey, residing at 2221 Walnut avenue, this city, and who on October 19 last, celebrated the 14th anniversary of his birth, is now in perfect health, having fully recovered from a critical attack that his mother was despaired of. The doctors in their frantic efforts to save his life, called in different medical practitioners and at different times had been admitted to both city hospitals.

DIAGNOSED: TUBERCULOSIS.

The malady was diagnosed by the physician as tuberculosis and it was suggested that the parent keep the boy out of doors, day and night, and feed him entirely on a milk and egg diet. In compliance, the parents, as an army cot placed in the back porch, had it properly screened, and then the sufferer reduced to a mere skeleton day and night, his life ebbing

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

Cigaretts Are Prohibited in Old New Hampshire Town

Either the town of Londonderry, N. H., is very old-fashioned or ultra-modern. In its attitude as regards cigarettes. Masculine youth as well as fashionable ladies who have learned the dainty art of blowing smoke rings are unable to decide which.

On Jan. 29, Londonderry merchants claim, the last package of cigarettes in the entire town was sold. They assure the stock will not be replenished.

Whether their stand is an indication of a future general prohibition ruling in the matter of "tailor-made" is a mooted question. But the citizens of Londonderry (including many of the newly enfranchised) are inclined to believe that any member of the family who smokes is a bad boy.

On the other hand he appears to have a positive genius for building a program of great musical merit and one which has melodies enough to delight anyone to whom the simplest form of the concerto would be a puzzle.

Perhaps this coupled with his remarkable interpretive powers and his unparalleled technical account for the amazing way in which year after year he returns to a city and always to a packed house.

Of the several enthusiastic reports of Kreisler's recent engagements in last week's issue of "Musical America," the following is selected as typical of the entire tour:

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25.—The high point in the musical season thus far, was the recital by Fritz Kreisler on the evening of January 21. Over 4000 persons heard him, and many were turned away. Beginning with the Concerto of Vieuxtemps No. 4, in D minor, Mr. Kreisler played numbers by Bach, Martin, Lefebvre and Carter, closing the first group with the Tarantini Variations.

In the final group the artist offered Miles Davis' "Indian Dance," Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Chanson Indienne," from "Sadko," the P. Mizer "Moment Musical" of Schubert, his own arrangement of "Champlain's "Spanish Serenade" and "Padua's" "Dance," closing with his own version of the Chinese popular song, "The Old Train." The program was further lengthened by several encores and the repetition of one or two numbers on the program. Carl Tissman was the accompanist.

Pine cough syrup are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy, take no syrup, but put 2 1/2 ounces of Pine resin in a pint bottle, and fill up with clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children like it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—Inflamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, heartsease, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Northern pine extract, and is famous the world over for its power and efficacy.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pine" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IN THE POLICE COURT NAVAL APPROPRIATION RESTRICT IMMIGRATION BILL PASSES HOUSE

Assault With Intent to Murder Charged—Illegal Sale of Liquor

The case of Theodore Gavriel and Bessie Nickopoulos, charged with assault with intent to murder, was continued to February 25 today in the police court. Theodore Nickopoulos, the complainant, had his nose swathed in bandages. It is alleged that an assault was committed by the defendants upon Nickopoulos when the latter was calling upon the woman.

The case of Theresa Donnellan, charged with the breaking of a cat, was placed on file, the matter having been adjusted out of court. It is stated that the feline, which is valued at $5 by Julian C. Foley, its owner, was found by a neighbor of Miss Donnellan, and presented to the latter. Upon Miss Foley advancing proof of ownership, the animal was returned.

George Basius was fined $100 for illegal sale of liquor. He asked for time to pay his fine, but when this was refused he produced the money.

Alethal Champagne drew a $10 fine for drunkenness, this being his third offense. He was granted one month to pay.

Joseph F. Campbell, charged with operating an automobile on Middlesex street February 5 without having a rear light, was fined $5. The police records reveal that in 1918 Campbell was in court on two occasions being charged respectively with failing to give signals, and with violating the jitney law. In 1918 he again made his appearance before the court, being charged with not displaying the proper lights, and with failing to stop and make himself known after causing an injury.

LEGION HEARS CASEY ON NEW CHARTER

Discussion of the proposed city charter from the viewpoint of the charter commission, bringing out the reasons for adopting each of its provisions, conducted by Hon. James B. Casey, chairman of the charter commission, was the feature of last night's meeting of Post 57, American Legion, in Legion hall, Dutton street.

After Mr. Casey had gone carefully through each of the charter provisions, explaining them carefully and dissipating several objections to them, the meeting was then open to an informal discussion. Out of the large number present, there were several who took a very active part in the proceedings and asked many questions, all of which were cheerfully and satisfactorily answered by the speaker. No formal expression of the attitude of the Legion members was given.

Previous to the discussion and address by Mr. Casey and during the business session, the entertainment committee was instructed to go ahead with plans to bring Captain Edwin Booth's lecture to this city.

Capt. Booth's lecture resembles somewhat the Y.M.C.A. moving pictures which were shown here some time ago. War-time pictures and views of reconstruction work in France are included in Booth's lecture. The lecturer has presented his show in many cities in New England and at present is busy in the large cities of Connecticut.

The Legion assembly also extended a vote of thanks to General O'Sullivan, of the city assessors' office and Representative Charles Slattery for their work in support of the veterans' tax exemption law. Under the tax exemption law, which has been passed, the property of all war veterans, no matter what branch of the service, for the first $2000 worth, is exempt from taxation. This provision is similar to the exemptions allowed the veterans of the Civil and Spanish wars.

King Talks on Irish Situation

Chancellor took the manuscript, the king and the queen read, and the ceremony was over. It had occupied only a quarter of an hour.

After their majesties had bowed again to the three sections of the chamber, the procession filed out at the left of the throne.

Queen Mary wore under her robes an evening gown of lemon color with blue ribbon of the Garter across the breast, and necklaces and a cumber of diamonds.

No feature of the occasion interested the king more than the presence of the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York. The latter, in the robes of a peer, took a seat in the front row of the peers. Then came the Prince of Wales, preceded by an officer of the household who coached him through the proceedings. The prince, who also was in the robes of a peer, bowed low before the vacant throne and then stood before his chair on the right of the throne. Everyone was standing and after a moment his master took to him and the prince saluted him in a half-embarassed and blushing.

During the half hour before the coronation, Ambassador Davis was the object of much attention. Lord Balfour, Lord Eustace, Lord Curzon and other notables of the upper house went forward to greet him.

No particularity in the body of the king attracted more attention than Eddie Fossl, son of the king of the Hapsburgs, who occupied a front seat. He wore a civilian suit with a remarkable white beret.

Measures Designed to Check Flow From Southern and Eastern Europe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The naval appropriation bill, carrying approximately $395,000,000, was passed yesterday by the house after it had decisively voted down an amendment which would have prevented the expenditure of any part of the $30,000,000 provided for battleship construction until an international disarmament conference shall have been called by the president. The amendment, offered by Representative Brooks, republican, Illinois, was defeated, 124 to 20.

The house also refused to cut the amount that would be available for work on the navy's building program during the coming fiscal year to $30,000,000 as proposed by Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, and by a vote of 282 to 9 defeated a motion by Representative Blanton, democratic, Texas, to recommit the bill for the purpose of cutting the appropriation for construction work to $30,000,000 and of eliminating a section which prevents the use of stop-watches in navy yards and arsenals.

The report asserts that restrictions should be applied to this type of immigration and the committee feels it should be accomplished through some measure that will insure definite effectiveness.

VALENTINE PARTY BY PHONE OPERATORS

A program of entertainment, the distribution of valentines to guests, dancing and a buffet luncheon constituted the program of the valentine party given last evening by the Lowell telephone operators. The affair was held in the retiring room of the Appleton street building, which was decorated in a most elaborate and effective manner. The operators' own ladies' orchestra furnished the dance music.

During the evening Miss Nellie Shaw, chief operator, presented to Misses Edith Whittet and Miss Agnes Feeley, who have been prominent in arranging social affairs for the operators, a fountain pen and a gold bar pin respectively. Miss Anna Feeley and Miss Salmon Renshaw were in charge of last evening's entertainment. The following concert program was given:

PIANO solo, "Dance of the Demons," Miss May Cory; song, Miss Helen Wilson; reading, Miss Grace Crowley; song, "The Love Nest," Miss Kathleen Jennings; violin trio, "Just Like a Gypsy," Misses Beulah Lavigne, Mary Dunn and Mary O'Connor; song, "Palace," Miss May Cory; accompanied by Miss Loreta Kelley; violin solo, "Sweet Lucia," Miss Catherine Bouham; song, Miss Irene Dickinson; reading, Miss Frances Johnson; tenor, Miss Gertrude Culkin.

Valentine distribution was made by the following:

Misses Grace Fuller, Catherine Wrigley, Sadie Hughes, Tessie Sargent, Nellie Shaw, Lilla Piner, Margaret Cryan and Catherine Roughan.

WILL DISCUSS NEW HOTEL PROPOSITION

Harold L. Chabot, president of the chamber of commerce, has been requested by Frank C. Harris, owner of the Harrison hotel, to appear with him in conference to discuss the proposed new Harrison hotel, to be opened on the evening of 8 o'clock. The chamber of commerce will be represented, other committees will represent the Elks, the Rotary club and the city government.

At this meeting, it is expected that Charles F. Winter, formerly director general of the Bureau of Exhibitions, and his wife, will charge the propaganda for the sale of United States Liberty bonds and thrift stamps during the war, will outline a campaign for the Harrison hotel project in this city.

All work on the hotel was held up some time ago because of lack of support after $100,000 had been expended in partially erecting the building. In starting in Lowell and Boston, in making further arrangements, $15,000 has been invested.

Mr. Winter has been requested to take charge of the proposition because of his success in financing other large propositions in the past.

He has just completed the financing of the Broadwell Moving Picture company, which has studios in Bedford. He is connected with the Elks of Boston, F. Winter, Inc., of Boston.

OLDEST SHOE STORE CLOSES ITS DOORS

After 44 years of continual business under the same management, the doors of the E. E. Hill Shoe store has been closed and Mr. Hill, the active proprietor and manager, since the opening of the store, will retire to quiet life.

Forty-four years ago, Mr. Hill started his shoe business in the Bassett block on Merrimack street, and remained in this location for seven years. He then moved to his present location, 29 Central street. Here he continued to have his effects, with the interesting change that he recalls that have taken place in the shoe business. He rightly feels proud of the fact that his store is the only one that has survived all through these years, and he attributes it only to one thing, his square dealing with his customers and the high standard of his merchandise.

He adds that his health is not good, so he is decided to retire from active business after 44 years of successful dealing with the public. He sold his entire stock of shoes to The Gascony Co., who moved it to their store on Merrimack and Palmer streets.

"Why has the government withheld Gen. Strickland's report on the Cock fight?" will be among the first of the interrogations to be placed before the commissioners, it was asserted. Gen. Strickland's report already is said to have had the attention of the cabinet. It is authoritatively stated that the report reflects adversely on the crown forces, but that it places the initial responsibility upon the Sinn Feiners, claiming that the fires were directly attributable to the ambuscade Dillon's Cross, which occurred the same day.

This contention, it is asserted, will conflict with the testimony adduced by the laborite commission, the report of which was commissioned recently. This report declared that there were clear indications that trouble was brewing between the Sinn Feiners and the ambuscade Dillon's Cross, which occurred the same day.
